38TH ANNIVERSARY TO BE CELEBRATED BY COUNTRY CLUB

Birthday Tea At Club House Next Tuesday Afternoon

Tuesday, December 4, will be home coming day for members of the Country Club of Washington township. On this date the 38th anniversary of the founding of the club will be celebrated with a Birthday Tea and special program. First members and past presidents will be guests of honor.

Notices have been sent out to all past members living in the Township according to available membership lists. Owing to incomplete records, some names may have been omitted. It is the earnest wish of the committee that every one who has ever been a member of The Country Club of Washington Township will consider herself most cordially invited even though a notice fails to reach her.

Dr. Ethel Sabin Smith, of Mills College, will be the speaker for the day. A musical program of high order will consist of tenor selections, with Henri Salz at the piano. Three episodes representing the Past, the Present, and the Future will be presented by The Dramatic Section, assisted by future members.

Mrs. E. A. Ellsworth, Mrs. Lewis Adams and Mrs. A. A. Hatch will be hostesses.

Tea will be served by the members of the Program and Music Committees, who have planned the affair and are putting forth every effort to make it a happy and successful anniversary party.

FREAK ACCIDENT ON SANTOS ROAD PERILS 4 YOUTHS

Four Niles boys narrowly escaped serious injury Tuesday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding skidded on Santos avenue and climbed a guy wire. The youths were returning from high school.

Howard Rose, driving, had with him as passengers Donald Oliver and Harry and Morgan Cesari. All four were considerably shaken, and sustained minor abrasions and cuts.

The crash might have been much more serious but for the fact that the car was prevented from turning completely over by a door, which flew open.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hunt visited with Mrs. H. R. Hunt Sunday. They had attended the "big game" the day before.

Enthusiasm Marks First Meeting of Young Civic Group

Enthusiasm that promises to carry the new civic group far, was an outstanding feature of the organization meeting of the Niles Junior Chamber of Commerce Monday night at the Hotel Belvoir, Niles.

Thirty-one attended, including members of the senior chamber of commerce and representatives of the Pleasanton Junior Chamber. The latter outlined the purpose of the junior groups and directed the infant Niles organization in the initial proceedure.

The evening was begun with a brief talk by Paul Donovan, who introduced Sam Kerns as the one through whom the formation of the new group came to pass after months of discussion among the younger Niles men. Kerns, in his address, urged all to get into the new civic group at once and work toward its immediate success. Kerns stated that there will be ample work to engage the junior chamber when organization is complete. He told the assemblage that the new group was not at odds with the Niles Chamber of Commerce, and that he hoped the two organizations would work together for the common good.

Kerns next introduced Chamber President F. V. Jones, who said that most of the members of his organization were heartily back of the new venture, and that he hoped the younger men would take up the reins with an active and progressive program.

Jones' talk was followed by an outline of the county and state Junior Chamber of Commerce by J. J. Amaral, president of the county group and a director of the state organization. Amaral explained the independence of the junior group from the esnior chambers and answered a number of questions asked by Bill Cavanaugh and Gal Galvez as to details and policy.

The new group was formally named the Niles Junior Chamber of Commerce upon motion by Bill Cavanaugh seconded by Galvez. Sam Kerns was unanimously named provisional chairman, Paul Donovan, secretary and Bill Cavanaugh, treasurer.

Andrew Jorgenson, president of the Pleasanton Junior Chamber, spoke next, and stated at once that good will accorded the new Niles group was a tremendous asset. He urged a heavy charter membership, and in connection suggested that Kerns appoint a committee to contact potential members, and work out eligibility egulations.

Jorgenson said his group, with the assistance of delegations from Oakland, San Jose, Hayward and other bay cities, will come to Niles for a big get-together when the time comes for installation of officers. In the mean time, the junior chamber here will complete its charter and work out by-laws. Clyde Potvin, a director of the Pleasanton group, offered his assistance.

Those appointed by Kerns to serve on the membership committee are: Bill Cavanaugh, Gal Galvez, Bill Lanfri, Al Lanfri, Paul Donovan and Joe Viverios. Kerns will be chairman.

Next meeting will be held on the evening of December 10, at which time officers will be elected, and organization completed.

At the close of the meet, Jorgenson, Amaral and Potvin were thanked for their interest and assistance.

MEN UNSEATED AS BLEACHER GRID COACHES

SUPPOSED TO have greater knowledge of sporting trends, and one of the most energetic set of bleacher coaches in the township, male Niles football fans bit the dust Saturday when two of the three "Big Game" pools were won by members of the fair sex.

Mrs. George Bonde triumphed with a win of $38.00. She had picked the score at 10 to 7.

Miss Harriet Jones and Mrs. Lila Evans divided $22.50 between them as victors of the second largest pool.

Frank Duarte saved the men from utter disgrace when he won a very modest $5.00 pool.

NILES SCOUTS ARE GIVEN AWARDS AT COURT OF HONOR

Event First Here Since Reorganization Of Local Troop

Parents and friends, attending the Niles Scout Court of Honor last Thursday night, raised the record for number of spectators to a new high. The court was the first to be held here since the reorganization of the troop several months ago.

Harvey Braun, scout committee president, was speaker of the evening. He welcomed the guests and lauded the scouts on their efforts. Frank Ferry and Frank Nunes, members of the committee, assisted Scoutmaster Crane in the presentation of the awards. Crane complimented the scouts on the appearance of the Scout House, which had been given a thorough cleaning.

The number of badges given out was large, owing in part, to honors held up by disbanding of the troop last year. Scouts to receive awards were:

Robert Zwissig and John McGowan; Life badges.

The following merit badges were awarded:

Robert Zwissig, athletics, scholarship and civics; John McGowan, life saving, pathfinding, bird study and physical development; Robert Kibby, safety, public health and pathfinding.

TOWNSHIP SHOCKED AT TRAGIC DEATH OF MRS. MILES SMITH

Wife of Publisher Struck Down By Automobile Saturday Night

Residents of Washington township were shocked Saturday when word was received of the tragic death of Mrs. Carrie Smith, 51, wife of Miles Smith, publisher of the Washington News, in an accident at the intersection of Cherry Lane and the Niles-Centerville road. Mrs. Smith was almost instantly killed when she was struck by a car driven by Clarence DuPont, 18, of Jacklin Road, Milpitas.

Mrs. Smith, who was returning from Oakland on the stage, alighted opposite the intersection. She was struck while crossing the highway by DuPont's machine, which was approaching from Centerville. DuPont stopped immediately and gave assistance. Mrs. Smith was rushed to the office of a local physician, where she died without regaining consciousness a few minutes later.

Known for her quiet charm and equable disposition, Mrs. Smith was endeared to her host of friends in this district. She was a native of Riverton, Iowa, and came to Niles twenty-two years ago with her husband from New Mexico. She was a member of the Hazel Circle, Neighbors of Woodcraft, Niles, and active each year in the annual Christmas Seal sale drive here. She had been chairman of the Niles district several times.

She is survived by her husband, Miles Smith; two daughters, Lorraine and Dorothy Smith and a son, Harold Smith, all of whom live here and are well-known.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock at the Chapel of Palms, Centerville. The Rev. Wesley Dexter Gordon conducted the ceremonies, in which he read three touching and appropriate poems. Mrs. Wesley Gordon, sang, among other songs, Rock of Ages and Abide With Me. Mrs. Smith was buried beside her mother, who passed away four years ago, at Gilroy. Pall bearers were Judge Allen G. Norris, Dr. G. S. Holman, Joseph Jason, Frank Madruga, Chick Santos and Loren Merriott.

DuPont, almost prostrated after the tragedy, was held by police for questioning. He was later absolved of blame and released. He is employed at the Castlewood Country Club, and acquainted here.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Alberg will spend the day in Oakland.

Thanksgiving

By NORMAN H. PARKS

Thanksgiving Day is distinctively an American holiday, in fact a New World institution handed down to us by the Pilgrim Fathers. The story has oft been repeated how the day first was set aside for rejoicing and thanksgiving because of a bountiful harvest, for a feeling of security in a peace with the Red Man, and the attainment of religious liberty, all of Divine dispensation in the earnest belief of those hardy men and women who were among the first white people to settle on the shores of this continent.

Since the year 1621, Thanksgiving has annually been celebrated. Christmas only seems to transcend it in importance and in the affection of the American people. Thanksgiving, then, comes and goes regardless of the temper of this great race of the Western World. It comes in the Falls when the land is blessed in bounty and happiness; comes also in the Autumns when distress is crushing a patient people. Like the winds that come and go, from whence and to where no man knows, so Thanksgiving arrives auspiciously, and again when the heart of man is sad, and his mind dazed and discouraged.

But at each season, whether the American finds himself in plenty or in want, he throws aside for the occasion his pessimism, and pushes out of his heart the blackness of dispair. He lives up to the Day. He sings, he feasts, he offers thanks to the great God of all that he is still alive, and with the help of Christian faith—that sustaining staff in the hour of trouble—he goes on, and though hopeless his situation may seem, he yet triumphs over economic and physical disease.

Thanksgiving has gradually grown into quite as much a religious date on the calendar as that marking the resurrection of the Christ. Man, often mean and miserable the rest of the year, unfolds himself on Thanksgiving as he does on Christmas. He hopes to make one individual happy, and many if possible. He spreads out a great feast for his friends, and better yet, often for strangers in want or alone. Forebodings of evil, and small and little thoughts are crowded out of his mind, and he smiles and laughs, and makes the world merry.

And that is good. It is Christian, and makes us all better men and women. Lifting ourselves out of the smallness of our natures and freeing the mind of impending calamity, just for a day, certainly makes the world better permanently. The seed of generosity, charged with the infectious ring of laughter, takes root in the soul and grows; and the laughter, ringing out into the lanes of dreariness and drabness, echoes and reechoes, until the whole world is akin in good fellowship and Christian Charity.

HETCHY MAY HAVE CHLORINATION PLANT HERE

Construction of a chlorination plant at the Irvington portal of the Hetch Hetchy line will soon get under way, it was seen last week, when the Public Utilities Commission acepted a low bid of $19,487 from the C. A. Bruce Company, of Pleasanton. The plant will be for the purpose of additional purification of the water after its long trip from the Sierras.

Other bids received were two for the construction of a 2900-foot section of the Cherry Creek aqueduct, between Lake Eleanor and Early intake on the Hetch Hetchy system. T. E. Connolly bid $98,812, while the Morrison-Knudson Company bid $98,814, a differance of only two dollars.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Sheehan, and son, of Munnsville, New York, are spending two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Dan Marble.

CAUSES CRASH ON HIGHWAY; GETS TEN DAYS

Alleged to have imbibed too freely of wood alcohol, Jeff Pierce, Livermore man, is cooling his heels in the county bastille after causing a traffic tie-up near Warm Springs last week. He was arrested by Constable O. W. Ebright.

Pierce, who was driving his own car, swerved from the road near the county line last Wednesday, crashed a pole, then proceeded to back his equipage into the middle of the highway, where it was struck by an automobile driven by Anson Hilton, of Oakland. No one was hurt.

Pierce's condition was noticed and the authorities were called. Investigation revealed a quanity of "alkie" in the car. Judge J. A. Silva pronounced judgment last Thursday morning.

NATIVE OF FRANCE, MISSION RESIDENT 50 YEARS; PASSES

George Cornac Dies In French Hospital Last Wednesday

George Cornac, a native of France and a resident of Mission San Jose, died at the French hospital in San Francisco on November 21, according to word received here Saturday.

He was well known in Mission San Jose, having settled there nearly fifty years ago. As owner of a large ranch, he was engaged in farming for many years; however, owing to ill health, he has not been active in business for some time. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Marie Cornac, and four daughters: Mrs. Julia Brown, of Newark; Mrs. Jean Boggini, of Mission San Jose; Mrs. Leona Turner, of Niles; and Miss Emily Cornac, who is secretary of the city health department in San Jose.

Funeral services were held at the Berge Mortuary in Irvington on Saturday morning, November 24, at 9:30 o'clock. A high mass was celebrated at the St. Joseph's church in Mission San Jose at 10:00 o'clock. Interment followed in the St. Joseph's cemetery at Mission San Jose.

DEMAND FOR LIQUOR NOT WHAT EXPECTED

Consumption Is Not Half That of Pre-Dry Era.

Washington.—Either the American thirst for liquor is not what it used to be or the bootlegger is doing a better business than his legal competitor. Whatever the cause, it now appears that the consumption of legal liquor in the first year of repeal will be considerably less than half the amount consumed in a normal year of the pre-Volstead era.

The legal liquor industry that sprang up almost over night after 13 years of drydom, is finding its dream of quick profits only a dream, and heavy losses are threatening to close down distilleries and retail establishments throughout the country. Imported wines and liquors are lying in warehouses and there is more than ample liquor now on hand to satisfy even an unprecedented demand.

In short, figures issued by the Treasury department and by the code authority for the distilling industry indicate a surprising failure on the part of the drinking public to consume the amount of liquor it had been expected to consume on the basis of past performances.

Blame Bootleggers.

Spokesmen for both the government and the distilling industry were inclined to attribute this failure to the continued competition of illicit liquor, rather than to any loss of appetite on the part of drinking Americans. They blamed the high price of legal liquor and representatives of the industry went further to blame the high prices on high taxes.

What with federal taxes at $2 a gallon, state taxes ranging even higher in some places, and heavy licensing fees in nearly every locality, members of the industry argue, prices of legal liquor cannot be low enough to compete with the prices of illegal liquor on which no tax is paid at all.

Moreover, according to the industry's spokesmen, repeal did not completely change the drinking habits developed during the thirteen years' reign of the bootlegger. The illicit dealer is still highly patronized, they declare, and in one quarter it was estimated that for every gallon of legal, tax paid liquor consumed, two gallons of illicit, untax paid liquor is sold.

During prohibition, it is estimated, some 100,000,000 gallons of bootleg liquor were consumed each year, and the legal liquor industry argues that because of high prices, which they blame on high taxes, much of this huge illicit traffic still exists.

Dr. James M. Doran, chairman of the Distilled Spirits institute, distillers' code authority, estimates that more than 36,000,000 gallons of legal liquor will be consumed this year on the basis of consumption up to June. This, he pointed out, is just about half the amount of liquor consumed in even the leanest pre-prohibition years. Annual normal consumption prior to the dry era, according to Doctor Doran, was about 84,000,000 gallons a year.

Imports Are Down.

While the domestic industry is confronting a serious problem due to the unexpectedly low demand for legal spirits, the foreign producer and importer is likewise faring badly in the American market, figures compiled by the Treasury department indicate.

Since repeal became a reality on December 5, the treasury disclosed, imports of liquor have totaled 8,264,227 gallons. Prior to that date, some 40,111 gallons were on hand, in bonded warehouses, bringing the total supplies of foreign liquors in this country up to June 30 to 8,304,338 gallons.

Only 3,743,818 gallons have been withdrawn, however, leaving 4,560,520 gallons of imported whiskies and spirits still unused in the warehouses. Allowing for present stocks on retail shelves, the treasury's figures would indicate that less than 3,700,000 gallons of foreign liquor have been consumed in this country in the eight months since prohibition ended.

At the same time the lack of demand has caused importers to fall far short of the amount of foreign liquor they expected to bring to American shores after prohibition ended. Imports have amounted to only two-fifths of the quotas allowed by the control board for the period between December 5 and April 30. Only about one-fifth of the December-April quota, moreover, has moved into consumptive channels.

French Town's Citizens All on Treasure Hunt

La Roche Sur Yon, La Vendee, France.—Ever since a peasant dug up 4,000 copper coins in his barnyard last February, this quaint province has become a miniature French Klondyke.

Treasure hunting is the principal pastime of La Vendee. Farmhands and school teachers, milkmaids and telephone operators all have taken to digging around the town, hoping to be as lucky as the February finder of 4,000 copper coins which he transformed into $400.

The coins were worth very little as copper and less as currency, but they were 300 years old and carried the portrait of Louis XIII, and therefore they had a definite value to coin collectors.

The coins minted at Tours are called "tournois" and "demi-tournois," and at that time each "tournois" was one-twentieth of the French "livre," or pound, and the unit of currency under the monarchy.

Last July a shepherdess discovered 15 coins dating to Louis XV; a year ago a chicken pecking in the soil uncovered 5,000 coins dating back several centuries. Such finds, it is reported, go back to 80 years ago, when 6,000 coins of gold, silver, and copper, now in the Nantes museum, were dug up near that city.

Old Stage-Coach Driver Gets Thrill in Air Trip

Chicago.—Above the same route over which he drove stage coaches 55 years ago, at less than ten miles an hour, Fred Tice, octogenarian of Medford, Ore., got a new thrill when he rode leisurely along in a three-mile-a-minute, multi-motored transport on United Air Lines' coastal route.

Tice pointed out to fellow plane passengers his old route in northern California and southern Oregon. His trips half a century ago required 100 hours, and a total of 92 horses for a 275-mile stage-coach trip, a distance the seven-ton United plane covered in one and one-half hours.

Watering System Is Simple Matter

Possibilities of Irrigation Favored by Farmers in Drought Sections.

By L. A. Somers, Garden Extension Specialist, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.—WNU Service.

Ten years ago the idea of irrigating their gardens would have been scoffed at by Illinois farmers, but the unusually dry weather of this season has brought home the possibilities of irrigation in a convincing way. Not all farms, but a very large number of them might have irrigated gardens at small expense.

During drought seasons a simple, homemade watering system may mean the difference between a productive garden and a total loss. Likewise, having sufficient water at the proper time is particularly important to late-planted vegetables.

In a majority of cases the farmstead is built in a slight elevation with the garden laid out on a gentle slope a short distance from the source of water. Generally, too, there is a pump powered by a windmill or gasoline engine that is capable of supplying far more water than is needed for household and live stock consumption.

All that is necessary on these farms is a line of pipe running from the live stock or storage tank to the upper edge of the garden, and a piece of hose that can be moved from row to row as needed. If the storage tank is below the upper level of the garden, the pipe may be attached directly to the pump and the water forced up to the higher level of the garden.

By using either a cultivator or hand hoe, rough furrows can then be placed at the upper end of a furrow and the water allowed to make its way slowly to the lower end. As the furrow becomes soaked, the hose is moved from row to row across the garden. It will be necessary, of course, to keep the windmill or gasoline engine running to maintain the water supply, but in most cases the method is inexpensive and does not require constant attention.

Different farms will, naturally, require different adaptations of any type of watering system, for the problem is more or less an individual one. However, if farmers will look over their own situations, a great many will find it entirely possible and practical to irrigate the garden with but little expense and labor.

Grain Fed Weaning Calf

The amount of grain fed to a weaning calf will depend upon the condition of the individual. Each animal should be kept in medium flesh and a good growing condition. The amount fed before weaning should be increased to take the place of nutrients formerly supplied by milk. As a general rule three pounds of grain is fed before weaning, and this can be increased to four or five pounds during the weaning period and immediately after the animal is weaned. Little or no grain is required, however, when the calves are on good pasture.

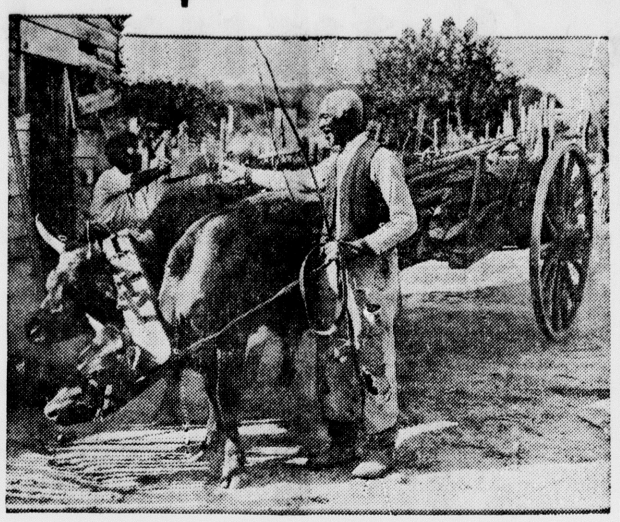
Maryland Is 300



Ox Teams Are Still in Use in Maryland

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

MARYLAND, the Old Line state, this year is celebrating its three-hundredth anniversary. In March a stone cross was unveiled at Saint Clement's (now Blakistone) island, in the Potomac river, which marks the landing place of Leonard Calvert, the first Maryland governor. On June 16 another celebration will take place at St. Marys City, site of the first Maryland capital, near the extreme southern tip of the state.

Maryland is a delightful geographic miniature of America. Her eastern shore is as level as any prairie state and, under modern cultivation, becomes as fertile. Southern Maryland, romantic with manorial mansions that are centuries old, is a counterpart of tidewater Virginia and the old South.

The rolling green fields and forested hills of Montgomery and Frederick counties remind one of the Blue Grass country of Kentucky and of the loveliest valley of New York and New England, while the long climbs of Big Savage mountain, Negro mountain, and Keysers ridge have made many a western motorist feel that they were as high as the Rockies and the Sierra Nevada.

Her tiny area is a museum of geology, disclosing the most ancient rocks of our globe and others still in the process of making, and running the scale through every major geological epoch.

From little St. Marys, where the Colonists of the Ark and the Dove established the first community in the world where Protestant and Catholic could worship in friendship together, in an age when Europe was red with blood shed in the name of religion, to the mountains of western Maryland, where George Washington, fighting the Indians, gained his first military experience, a continuous panorama unfolds of colonial landmarks and scenes sacred and momentous in our national life.

In this state, whose finest tradition is tolerance, intellectual giants and big-souled men and women originated notable principles of government and new ideals of human society.

Capt. John Smith Was There.

It is impossible definitely to fix the date when white men first saw what is now Maryland.

But certainly the Chesapeake bay region was carefully explored by Capt. John Smith of Jamestown, in 1608. In that year he went up one side of the bay and down the other, going up the rivers and inlets as he pushed onward. He visited what is now the site of Baltimore and sailed up the Patapsco river. He also went up the Potomac as far, at least, as Indian Head.

After the rigors of the Newfoundland climate had ended his hopes of establishing a colony there, and after Virginia had refused to receive him unless he took the oath of spiritual allegiance to the king of England, Sir George Calvert, the first Lord Baltimore, went back to London and asked the king for a part of the unsettled region north of the Potomac river.

This was granted him, and also a charter (which he wrote himself) that entitled him to set up a palatinate, with the most ample rights and privileges ever conferred by a sovereign of England.

Under it, all that the crown retained was feudal supremacy. Two Indian arrows and a fifth of the gold and silver produced were the sole annual tribute required as a gesture of fealty to the king.

Impressed by the crescent form of the southern boundary of the territory granted him by his friend, Charles I, Lord Baltimore decided to call it Crescentia. The king, however, wanted to honor his wife, Queen Henrietta Maria, and Maryland the colony became.

The first Lord Baltimore dying before he could take advantage of his grant, the title was confirmed to his son, Cecil.

Seen From the Water.

Maryland had its beginnings between the Potomac river and Chesapeake bay, and the events that transpired in that peninsula have had such a vital bearing on the destiny of the United States and the course of human history that one needs to journey hither who would understand the role of this fine old state in the making of America.

To resurrect the colonial scene and to absorb its atmosphere to best advantage, one should leave his motor car behind and wander down the Potomac and up the Chesapeake aboard one of the little trading steamers which wend their way to all the sturdy landings that reach out of the colonial past for their not-too-frequent contacts with the Twentieth-century world.

For while modern Maryland, for the most part, turns its back on the bay and its tributaries and faces the splendid highways of the present, which have had to keep inland to avoid broad, unbridgeable tidal inlets, historic Maryland gratefully faced the shore that was its great highway to the world beyond the sea and clung close to it.

Forty miles in 40 hours—from Washington to Baltimore between Saturday afternoon and Monday morning! No, the steamer is not so unreasonably slow as it would seem; for its course must thread a dozen tidal rivers and lakelike bays to visit the creaking landings that have survived the centuries and still offer their commerce to the outside world. During those 40 hours one lives again the life of another age.

The trip begins as you set sail, leaving the Capital City astern. Presently the frowning bastions of Fort Washington appear, at the mouth of Piscataway creek. Upon the site of the parade ground of that fort Gov. Leonard Calvert held a powwow with the king of the Piscataways, as his first act in establishing friendly relations with the Indians.

Port Tobacco river comes down through the hills to meet you, with its memories of John Hanson of Mulberry Grove, president of the United States in congress assembled, 1781-1782; of Thomas Stone of Habre de Venture, signer of the Declaration of Independence, and of Dr. James Craik, who saved Washington's life in Braddock's defeat and attended him until his death.

Home of the "King Entertainer."

Just before reaching Morgantown, Mount Republican appears beyond a headline, and what memories the walls of this old house could relate if they could speak! for here lived and ruled, history notes, Franklin Weems, known as King Entertainer of Southern Maryland. It is said that he had a hundred foxhounds in his pack; that he maintained a card game which lasted forty years; that he kept a cellar stocked with fifty barrels of the best brandies and the choicest wines for the landed gentry or casual traveler coming his way, and he so loved youth and happiness about him that he gave a party for the young people three times a week.

Late in the night Blakistone island (known as St. Clement's island in colonial days) is picked up by an obliging searchlight, and one can fancy he sees coming out of the darkness of the past the Ark and the Dove, bearing the founders of Maryland, commanded by Gov. Leonard Calvert, brother of Sir Cecil Calvert, second Lord Baltimore.

Landing of Governor Calvert.

A landing was made March 25, 1634; a huge cross, hewn out of a tree, was erected, with prayers and thanksgiving, and solemn and formal possession of the land, both in the name of the spiritual Christ and the temporal king, was taken.

The waters around the island were shallow and had to be approached in shallops. A boatload of womenfolk going ashore to stage Maryland's first wash day was overturned. Some of the women narrowly escaped drowning, and Governor Calvert reported much linen lost, including some of his own, "which was no small matter in these distant parts."

St. Marys, though a shrine to which Christendom owes a pilgrimage, is only a memory that has no place in a steamer's time-table.

St. Marys was the site chosen by Leonard Calvert for the first settlement. Here he bought 30 miles from the Indian king, with a quantity of axes, hoes and broadcloth, and the Colonists—20 "gentlemen" and 300 artisans, half Catholics and half Protestant—disembarked.

Selecting a Horse

With the demand for horses increasing the following points which might prove valuable to the buyer are offered. It is not the condition of the horse alone that should be considered. True enough it is well to be sure he has no blemishes and that his build, etc., indicate he is well fitted for work, endurance and long life. But even more important than this is whether or not he is fitted for the particular type of work you will want him to do. On the farm the different jobs for the horse vary a great deal in nature, and therefore the animal best fitted for all is the one to be chosen. The large horse weighing around a ton may be very good for jobs where a great amount of strength is required, but extra weight might slow him up enough so that he will not be efficient for numerous other lighter tasks. The medium-proportioned horse, provided he has a show of energy and willingness, usually proves to be the best fitted for general farm work.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Handling Chopped Hay

Since chopping of hay is being done more generally farmers need to take into consideration the fact that a ton of chopped hay takes only about 200 cubic feet of mow room while a ton of long or loose hay takes 600 feet. Because many mows are not built to hold the excess weight which is possible when the hay is chopped, care must be taken not to overload mows. There is also a tendency for chopped hay to heat more than long or loose hay unless it is well cured.

Young Fisherman Uses Toy Sailboat as Bobber

Waltham, Mass.—Veteran fishermen can get a few pointers from Paul Milvill, eleven, on how to catch, not only the big ones, but a good many at a time. Paul uses a toy sail boat to which he attaches four lines with baited hooks. The boat goes out about fifty feet with the lines trolling behind, and when the fish bite the hook the boat bobs up and down. He then pulls in his fish.

Home Gold Valued at Over Half Billion

New York.—The value of old gold lying idle in American homes is believed to surpass the output of all the gold mines in the world for an entire year.

A drive to recover old gold, carried on in Britain some time ago, brought to light over half a billion dollars worth of the precious metal. America is believed to have an even greater store.

Why the Sudden Change to Liquid Laxatives?

Doctors have always recognized the value of the laxative whose dose can be measured, and whose action can be thus regulated to suit individual need.

The public, too, is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that a properly prepared liquid laxative brings a more natural movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The wrong cathartic may often do more harm than good.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription, and is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is obtainable at all druggists.

CAULIFLOWER CROP LARGE; MARKET WEAK. REPORT

Washington township vegetable growers, in the midst of the early harvest, are being faced with a slack market for most of their produce, according to Harry Konda, Centerville grower.

Cauliflower, one of the major crops being harvested now, is bringing an exceedingly low price. Crates of twelve heads bringing from 15 to 24 cents from the eastern market. Sales in the bay region markets are slack, growers stated, with just a few crates moving. Packing houses in this district are taking small amounts of the green vegetables, including minor shipments in mixed car lots.

According to growers, reason for the slow season to date, is because of mild weather in the east, allowing truck gardeners in the vicinity of the larger cities to lengthen production into the early winter season, thus reducing the market for California product. Early freezes in the east boost the California market.

In telling of the local markets, in Oakland and San Francisco, growers declare that competition is exceedingly keen. Buyers make a point of securing the very best produce at low prices.

CIVIC GROUP HEARS THANKSGIVING TALK AT ANNUAL BANQUET

John H. Kimball Urges Faith In Ultimate Recovery

Faith in the ultimate attainment of a better world, by a gradual rise through adversity and struggle, was the theme of an address by John H. Kimball Monday before the Niles Chamber of Commerce, when that group held their fourth annual Thanksgiving banquet at the Florence Restaurant.

Reiterating his confidence in the better side of human nature, Kimball traced the gradual increase in the value of human life and happiness throughout the ages. He declared that the present trend is toward a happier lot for humanity. Urging the assemblage to analyse civilization, particularly the American, Kimball pointed out the terrific sacrifice to attain what we have today.

He discussed the origin of Thanksgiving Day, and told of the hardships endured by the pilgrims. He stated that the day is peculiarly American; a day on which the home spirit is rekindled. He said that the American heart, almost alone in its zeal for liberty, will triumph over present adversity.

In closing, Kimball read from President Roosevelt's Thanksgiving proclamation, and pointed out the emphasis upon the human element and social justice. He lauded Roosevelt and said that the nation may well be thankful for his unselfish and intelligent leadership.

President F. V. Jones, enthusiastic over the address, thanked Kimball for the civic group.

Served to more than forty members, the dinner consisted of all the Thanksgiving fixings from cranberry sauce to mince pie.

Gordon B. Liang, Harold F. Grey, R. B. Vanetten, Dr. E. M. Grimmer and C. F. Myrick were guests at the meeting.

32 ENTERTAINED AT SMART "BIG GAME" PARTY SATURDAY

One of the seasons smartest parties in southern Alameda county was given Saturday night by Mr. and Mrs. George Emerson at their Centerville home.

The affair was an "after the Big Game dinner," and elaborate decorations in red and white and blue and gold were cleverly arranged. The dinner was served buffet style, four tables carrying out a Stanford motif and four dedicated to California. Place cards and score cards carried out the football idea. There were thirty two guests. The evening was spent at bridge.

Winners of the women's prizes were Mrs. W. L. McWhirter, Mrs. Theodore Oakes and Mrs. H. F. Chadbourne.

At the start of the evening the hostess presented each lady with a corsage depicting the recipient's college affiliations.

P.T.T. MANAGER RETIRES AFTER LONG SERVICE

John H. Corcoran, vice president and general manager of the northern California area of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company, will retire on December 1 after forty-seven years of service, it was announced early this week.

Growing up with the business, which he entered when the telephone itself was only eleven years old Corcoran progressed steadily and became in turn repairman, installer, wire chief, and vice president and general manager.

Mark R. Sullivan, general traffic manager of the Northern California area of the company, will succeed Corcoran as vice president.

Sullivan, who is forty years of age, was born in Oakland, obtained his education in public schools, and like Corcoran, also came up through the ranks, starting as clerk in 1912.

HUSKERS QUINTETS WIN 3 CONTESTS LAST WEEK

Three Washington high school basketball teams whirled off to a flashy pre-season start last week when Coach Regli's Class B, Class C and varsity fives each won their contests by substantial margins.

The varsity totalled 26 points to down the Auguns unlimited team, a Japanese aggregation, 26 to 16.

The class B quintet walloped the Auguns Class B's 12 to 4, while the C team gave Pleasanton a 15 to 4 scrubbing.

In preparation for a tough preparatory schedule, beginning next week, Regli is drilling his boys in floor work, plays and scrimmage. Members of the varsity, who won last week were: Laybourne, center; Ted Dumas and Rose, forwards: Kato and Muni, guards.

Laybourne, elongated center, is showing remarkable consistency in sinking the casaba for so early in the season. Dundas handles himself well, as does Kato, at guard. Rose's passing is perhaps the most accurate. Jack Rathbone, veteran, shows good form on the floor.

Practice games, beginning next week, line up as follows:

December 4, Morgan Hill, there.
December 7, San Jose, at Centerville.
December 10, W. U. H. S. Alumni, here.
December 13, Fremont, at Sunnyvale.

CENTERVILLE MAN ESCAPES INJURY IN ACCIDENT

John Lowman, on his way to Gilroy Monday with a car full of floral pieces for the funeral of Mrs. Miles Smith, narrowly escaped injury when he crashed into a car driven by James A. McBride, of 1814 9th street Alameda, at the intersection of Santos lane and the Irvington-Centerville road.

McBride, driving north, apparently failed to see Lowman coming in the opposite direction and turned out to pass a truck, also going north. Lowman immediately swerved to the left, then back to the right when McBride also made for the left of the road. The cars sideswiped and almost overturned.

Lowman suffered strained muscles in his neck. Both cars were badly damaged.

Hay Fever Caused by Russian Thistle

Salt Lake City, Utah.—The Russian thistle is the greatest single source of hay fever in America, Dr. Ray M. Balyeat of the University of Oklahoma told physicians from western states gathered here in their annual convention. The female cottonwood tree, also a prolific source of the ailment, should be banned by law, he declared. Cedars and elms likewise spread irritating pollen, he said.

Did you ever stop to think?

By Edson R. Waite

Money spent at home helps you and your city. Money spent away from home helps some other city. This habit of sending away to distant points for printing that you can get at home is becoming too common. I quote an editorial from the Penang Gazette and Straits Chronicle, which should be read carefully by every businessman. The editor says:

"We have received an interesting little booklet issued by Messrs. Mansfield & Company, Ltd. The booklet is a mine of information and gives details not only for traveling to and from Europe but of local leave and extended holiday trips which can be made by vessels of companies for which the firm act as agents. We were particularly glad to note in the foreword the following mention of Penang:

" 'The firm of Mansfield & Co., Ltd., was founded in Singapore in 1868, with branches in Sandakan and Penang. Although the Sandakan branch is no longer in existence, that at Penang continues to grow in importance.'

"And just one word of complaint. Why was it considered necessary to send to Europe for the production of the booklet? It is a neat affair, but there is nothing in it beyond the ability of Malayan firms to produce.

" 'Spend in Malaya First' would be a good motto for those of us who earn our daily bread in this country."

Do they Borrow

Your Collection Of Circular Letters?

HAVE YOUR neighbors ever dropped into your home to borrow the weekly collection of circular letters that the users think are as good as advertising in a country newspaper?

Few people realize the actual coverage of even the modest country newspaper. Not long ago an advertising expert is quoted as saying that careful research had ascertained that a certain well known metropolitan paper is read, an average, for the space of twenty minutes, while the average country newspaper has a "reading life" of three hours to its credit! It is kept around the house for a week and everyone in the family takes his turn in going through its pages. And its readers are really increased for the reason that oftentimes the paper is borrowed by those not fortunate to be a subscriber.

There is nothing in the way of an advertising medium that circulates in Washington Township that is as persistently read and digested as regularly and thoroughly as the Township Register.

ANTONE MEDIEROS, 66, SCHOOL CUSTODIAN, TAKEN BY DEATH

Antone Mederios, 66, who had been custodian at the Newark grammar school for the past ten years, died suddenly while at work on the school grounds Monday morning.

He was stricken with a fatal heart attack while mowing the school lawn.

In respect for the elderly janitor, who was loved by all the pupils and the teachers, the school was closed for the week. Mederios had spent almost half a century in Alameda county. He came to America from Portugal when a boy of fifteen.

The deceased was buried Wednesday morning from St. Edward's church. Interment was in the Holy Ghost cemetery under direction of the Chapel of Palms.

He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. J. Freitas, and Mrs. L. Costa, of Newark, and Mrs. A. Knobles, of Oakland, and grandchildren. His wife's death preceded his by five years.

Bud Ruschin Named On "All Canadian" Eleven

Writing from McGill University in Montreal where he is a medical student, Louis Ruschin, Jr., has informed his father in Newark that he has been made an "All Canadian" rating for football in King George's dominion to the north of the United States. "But," writes Bud, "I want you to understand that I am yet all American." Louis was one of the three McGill students to make the "All Canadian" rating. He was the first freshman, or rather firstyear man, to make the football team in eight years. When interviewed near the close of the football season, young Ruschin said: "In California my chum and I are just rated as mediocre players." The reporter replied, "Well, if you and he are rated as mediocre players, what are the rest of the players out there made of?"

NILES NINE TRIMS OAKLAND COLORED TEAM SUNDAY

Niles baseball fans were treated to one of the most entertaining games of the season Sunday when the Niles C of C's extended themselves to defeat the Oakland Black Sox, a colored team, in a fast contest at the Niles diamond.

Amused at the supple antics of their dusky opponents, the Niles lads nearly lost the contest in the fifth inning when the Sox rolled by the Niles total of five runs to lead by the margin of one run. Niles came back in the eighth frame with two more to capture the victory, 7 to 6.

Duke, hurling for Niles, did steady work, as did Raso, Pine and Ray Duarte in the outfield. Mederios, Silva and Rose came through with some timely hits.

Meadows, 45 year-old outfielder for the Sox, brought cheers from the stands with his work in the outfield. He also collected three hits in four times at bat.
